EMIZON 'CONNECTS' TOP INSURERS TO THE FIRST SECURE MANAGED SIGNALLING SERVICE FOR IP NETWORKS

Emizon 21, the secure, managed signalling service for 21st century networks is taking its message to the insurance industry, with a dedicated seminar aimed at demonstrating how the concept has moved from infancy to becoming the first choice for alarm signalling in IP monitoring solutions.

Bob Tuck, Managing Director of Emizon, will explore the changing world of communications, and specifically the likely impact on insurers. He will especially urge delegates to be more decisive in their actions, and avoid a vacuum of uncertainty that is currently forming around this latest challenge.

"We are looking for the same dynamism and responsiveness from the top insurers as we have seen from our own industry – manufacturers, installers, and ARCs alike. The danger is in doing nothing," Bob says, "and that is what seems to be happening at the moment. Where there is a vacuum, it will always be filled, but often with even less clarity and greater uncertainty."

Bob will be joined on the platform by Consultant Iain Jolley, discussing insurance standards; Paul Miller, a security advisor to leading High Street Banks, outlining the Corporates perspective; and Julie Kenny CBE DL, giving a manufacturer's view.

The seminar will be held on 4th September at Emizon's headquarters in Leicestershire. To date, senior figures from Allianz, Norwich Union, Zurich, and NIG amongst others have confirmed their attendance, and if you are interested in joining them then call Sian Lloyd on 01494 763255.
